

A child is born unto us, let us become more human! A Christmas reflection on humanism and the axioms of TCI

Werde Mensch – mit dem Kind! Eine weihnachtliche Betrachtung zum Humanismus und zur Axiomatik der TZI

Hartwig Kiesow

Keep the child in the manger within you – throughout your life. Let it grow within you.
Even when you are withering away. In it lies the path to eternity.

Stay alive. You don't always have to blossom!
You can also sow and reap. Or simply be there. Enjoy the silence. Be glad that you exist.
Feel that you are unique. A gift. For yourself and for this world.

Feel like a child and be curious. Wait and see what comes your way.

Marvel at this wonderful world until your last breath. It is and remains a mystery.

Ask the big questions: Where, why, what for, how long...
Your attempts to answer connect you with the people before and after us.

Feel the connection with everything that lives. It was created before you, with you and for you.

Respect that other children of God are different. Be open to them as people, but not to everything they say or do. There are boundaries that you can and should stand by.

Discover that the darkness can also be found within yourself. Pay attention to your dreams. Realise that you have a shadow that you cannot get rid of on your own. Leave that to the child!

Connect with other people who, like you, strive for the light. Who are guided by it.
Accept yourself with your shadow and follow the light.
Look in its direction and let it fill you.
Only what you accept can be changed!

Accept others as well. Even if it is difficult.
Respect what is foreign to you. It may be familiar to others.

One thing must be clear: reject evil. There are boundaries that must not be crossed.
And there are boundaries that can be overcome. That we can tear down. That can be transformed.
Do what you can. And what is possible for you. Even small things can lead to great things.

Accept that you and other people of good will cannot save this world.
That is not your destiny. Leave it to the child. Surrender yourself to the child.

Be and remain completely human. With skin and hair. You were once laid in diapers – like a child. Perhaps you are afraid of needing nappies again one day.

Learn serenity – practise letting go. Trust!
